Hey friends in Wingdale! My cockatiel clementine just escaped out the back door. She's not used to flying too too far, she normally has her wings clipped but was definitely due for another trim soon. If you guys could keep an eye out for her that would be great. Also don't freak out if she lands on your head. She always rides around on us. She's very friendly, but won't let you pet her, she just likes to be on people without being touched. She does the wolf whistle and the Adams family theme song. She's very colorful, she has feathers bright like a male would normally have.
