Missing since Thursday the 25th at night. Got outside even though he's an inside cat. We didn't notice until the next morning when we called him for food and he didn't come. I know we had a bad thunderstorm that night and I'm sure he was terrified. My family and I have spent hours and days looking for him everywhere, the woods, up in trees, the entire neighborhood and cannot find him. We are absolutely heartbroken and sick about it. Boo is all black with a tuft of white fur right on his chest. He's a little skittish though if he's hungry or scared I'm sure he would come to anyone who would call him over. I miss my sweet boy and am hoping he is just lost and maybe someone has taken him in rather than the alternative. My house is on 5 acres of woods it's so vast and daunting because the woods goes for miles. We've gone out everyday and have searched hours and hours to no avail.
