This kitty found me about 10 days ago. She is a young spayed female, so I wonder if she's lost. I live near some commercial property so I think she might have been eating out of dumpsters. She's very friendly now and made my home her own. When I took her to TARA today to be spayed I found out that had already been done. She got a rabies shot and I have worming pills for her.

When I found out she was spayed, I realized she might possibly be lost.
