My cat's name is Lily. She is extremely friendly and vocal although she might be a bit skittish due to her being outside for the first time for this long. She's an indoor cat who found her way out when the door was left open. She left on August 3 at around 1-2pm in Newburgh City between Ann Street and Washington St. This is the longest she's been away and I really miss her. I'm worried she might be hurt and/or dehydrated. I have found her before with a physical search but this time have not seen any sign of her. She will run away when chased so please approach with calmness and possibly treats. She might appear more slim/tiny cat as she was the runt of her litter. Thank you to anyone who helps. If you need more pictures to clearly identify her let me know! Again thank you!
