Hi. Looking for advice, or how to make a post. About 4pm this afternoon found a young, very friendly, very frightened and anxious lost female pitbull puppy. Was found in pleasant valley, in a trailer park off wigsten road. Pretty certain she doesn't live on wigsten. We checked around the park, but she was found with a ripped red prong shock collar, a purple collar with large metal bungee clip. So she came from a house with property, and where she was found is trailers and condos. Near by roads are north ave, sherow road, salt point turnpike, west road and gretna road. Weighs just under 40 pounds best guess. She's black with white under neck and white toes, full ears and tail. Hadn't eaten or drank today I'm pretty sure, or at not in hours. She's heathy, clean, no injuries, just got lose and lost. Brought her to closest vet immediately, no chip. All local vets have been notified, I've spoke to both hvars and dcspca and neither would house. Pleasant valley has a private animal patrol im told can't be reached. I would love to have her stay, but have a few pets of my own and not enough time to acclimate easily today. But I have her with me home. She's sweet as can be. Any help or info, welcome any calls to my cell. It's Matt hockman 845-505-0242. Thank you
