She’s all black with a white spot on her chest and a little bit of white near her armpit area and she has a scar in her left ear could be the right. She’s also missing a top fang and her name is Screams. She comes to either screams or screams. She is fixed but not microchipped. She has a loud meow that makes her sound like she's sorta screaming hence her name. She's really sweet and friendly and most of the time lets anyone pick her up. But she's been missing for a little over 4 months and she's an old girl. She's 14 years old but acts like she's a kitten.
